Pz.IA mit BREDA Gun Legion CONDOR

The combat debut of Pz.Kpfw. IA , the first German tank since the Treaty of Versailles, was in 1936, during Spanish Civil War. 106 tanks, (102 Ausf A, Ausf B and 4 kl.Pz.Bf.Wg 1KfA saw service with "Legion Condor" and General Franco's "Nationalists". By the spring of 1938, "Bandera de Carros de Combate de la Legion", consisted of two tanks battalions was formed. Pz.Kpfw. Is equipped 1-st Tank Battalion, while captured T-26s equipped the second. German High Command used the opportunity of the Spanish Civil War to test and compare their new weapons and tactics of Blitzkrieg. Pz.Kpfw. I was designed as light training tank for the pre-war Panzer Divisions never intended to be used in combat conditions. Its armour and MG armament were both very weak, because of its original design capabilities. Pz.Kpfw. I tanks proved to be outclassed by Soviet T-26 and BT-5 provided to "The Republicans". To overcome that, several Pz.Kpfw. I were rearmed with Italian 2cm. Breda mod. 35 anti-tank guns, mounted in a modified turret.
